50X1-HUM

1. A Russian rocket-propulsion unit, consisting of 3 trucks and a passenger car, demonstrated a new (sic) projectile to Hungarian troops between 3 and 18 October 1951. The demonstrations took place at Hajduhadhaz (K 52), Balkany (K 63), and Hajmaskar (D 79).
2. The length of the projectile is about 3.5 m. There are two wings attached to the upper third of the rocket; they are 80 cm. wide and 1.30 m. long. Fin stabilizers are located on the opposite end of the projectile.
3. The projectile is launched from an adjustable platform 6 m. long. The wings are attached at the site of launching -- that is, after the shell is placed on the shooting platform by means of a crane. This procedure is followed by pouring propulsion fluid into the shell from two containers.
4. The range is 8/24 (sic) km. Because of its high fragmentation, just above the ground, the projectile is considered to be an anti-personnel weapon. The explosion can be controlled by an adjustable ignitor.
5. One truck transported three shells; the second truck transported the wings for the shells and the launching platform; the third truck taking part in the demonstrations was, presumably, a personnel carrier.
